JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Former Gov. Orval Faubus Thursday declined a challenge by Hayes McClerkin of Texarkana to go on television and debate five issues concerning the ex-governor's administration.

McClerkin and Faubus are both seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Speaking at Jonesboro, Faubus said: "I won't go on television with him and draw him a bigger audience than he can get."

He said, however, that he would issue a response to the five issues McClerkin raised in the challenge.

In response to a question about casino gambling, Faubus said, "When this came up in my administrations, I had always told the people I would veto it — I see no reason to change my mind."

Faubus also said that if elected he would refer to the voters any casino gambling bill passed by the legislature.

The former governor proposed a multi-million dollar program of building county farm-to-market roads for the state.

Faubus said the $7,750,000 annual highway bond debt could be paid off immediately with money from the present reserve fund. He said the extra money made available could be used to build hard-surfaced roads, except for 15 per cent of the funds that would go to cities and towns and 15 per cent that would go the counties.

Speaking to a rally later Thursday night at Jonesboro, Faubus criticized Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

"If you were to go into his office and try to talk about conservation or some other problem of the state, you would have to go out and get one of his aides to come in and explain what you are talking about," Faubus said.

He warned the crowd that the Democratic nominee faces a "big battle" in the November general election.

Faubus said the Democratic nominee would have to face "Rockefeller's millions, an $800,000 computer and ... his telephone WATS lines."

Faubus also promised to raise teachers' salaries in Arkansas up to the national average, increase welfare grants, and improve the Arkansas Children's Colony.

Calley Trial Postponed Indefinitely

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The military trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., in the alleged massacre at My Lai in 1968, originally scheduled to begin here Aug. 24, has been postponed indefinitely, the Army announced today.

The Army said, however, that a pretrial hearing would be held on that date to consider defense motions. The hearing will be closed to the news media and the public, the announcement said.

Defense attorneys for Calley are seeking to force the Army to disclose contents of certain documents relating to Calley's case.

A spokesman said no further hearings will be held in Calley's case until a federal court acts on motions filed before it.

Attorneys for Calley, who is charged with premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians, have filed suit in U.S. District Court in Washington, asking that the charges be dismissed.

The suit seeks to block his military trial, and if that is denied, Calley, 27, of Miami, Fla., wants a civilian trial by jury.

A three-judge federal court upheld last Monday the Army's right to try Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., and Spec. 4 Robert W. T'Souvas, 21, of San Jose, Calif.

Twelve soldiers have been charged in connection with the alleged massacre.

Witness in Tate Case Has Her Freedom

By LINDA DEUTSCH Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Everybody says I'm a free woman," Linda Kasabian said with a sigh, "but I don't feel any different."

Then the state's star witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial was whisked out a back door of the Hall of Justice Thursday under heavy guard to spend her first night out of jail in eight months.

Mrs. Kasabian's lawyers said she was driven to an undisclosed hotel, anticipating "a good dinner and probably watching television."

She was released after murder-conspiracy charges against her were dropped Thursday. The petite, pigtailed witness was granted immunity from prosecution for telling her story on the stand.

During 14 days as a witness, she has testified that some members of Charles M. Manson's hippie-style "family" killed the blonde actress and six others during two murder missions last August. She said she went on the missions but stayed outside as a lookout, then fled in terror.

Manson and three women followers, Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20, are on trial for murder-conspiracy.

Mrs. Kasabian will come to court daily until she completes her testimony. Ronald Hughes, the last of four defense lawyers, completed his cross-examination, and chief prosecutor Aaron Stovitz began questions in redirect examination.

Stovitz said he would finish redirect by tonight, but the four defense attorneys then begin recross-examination, which is expected to take several days.

A prosecutor said that she will remain under guard as long as she's a witness, but once she leaves California the matter will be out of their hands.

Her attorney said she hopes to head east. Her mother in Milford has been caring for her children, Tanya, 2, and Angel, 5 months.

The attorney, Ronald Goldman, was asked if, in view of her experiences, she could ever really feel free.

"The fact that she has told the truth," he said, "that she gave herself up, and that she has done everything she could for the cause of truth and justice, will give her solace and a sense of freedom."

Hughes, trying his first case, concluded his cross-examination with questions on drug use and life in the Manson "family."

He asked if Mrs. Kasabian gave her baby daughter drugs. "No," she replied. "I believe she was stoned naturally. I believe that all children are."

Was she "controlled by Mr. Manson through vibrations?" "Yes, possibly."

Did he put out "a lot of vibes?"

"Sure. He's doing it right now."

The answer brought a broad grin from Manson.

Earlier, the diminutive bearded Manson, 35, padded barefoot into the courtroom for a hearing with the jury absent. He complained of "unjust and barbaric treatment" in jail and asked for a "cease and desist" order.

Manson, in jail denims, took the witness stand to testify in support of his motions but didn't get the chance. The judge postponed the hearing for a week after the defense said it wanted the sheriff's department represented by an impartial attorney, rather than by one of the prosecutors.

Manson complained that he and his attorney are forced to interview witnesses through a heavy screen that makes vision difficult. He was joined in the motion by his three defendants, who said they too have problems with screens.

In a written statement accompanying his motion, Manson said, "Several times daily I am forced to completely disrobe to nudity then forced to dress, becoming alternately nude and dressed ... as frequently as six or seven times a day each of my body cavities is searched. I am forced to walk to and fro in a hallway until I am completely exhausted."

Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess issued a statement that Manson's charges are false and part of a series of "diversionary tactics that are as old as sin itself."

"SUBJECT: 1970 ASSESSMENT PROGRAM"

"The local Board of Education in its last regular meeting considered the poor financial posture of Hope School District 1-A. It is the unanimous opinion of the Board that a concentrated and coordinated effort of the County Judge, Tax Assessor and Equalization Board will be required to secure a fair and equitable assessment of property of the county at twenty per cent of market value as required by law."

"The School Board is fully aware of the problems of the County Equalization Board particularly the time element involved. But, inasmuch as the Assessment Coordination Commission has certified Hempstead County as being below the assessment standard as defined by Arkansas law, the School Board feels that the County officials concerned with tax assessments will be derelict in their duty if property assessments are not brought up to the required twenty per cent of fair market value."

"The Board of Education of Hope School District 1-A along with two other taxing units of the county have, in the past, offered their aid in a reassessing effort, the Board's offer is still open and because of the consequences of underassessment from the State government, it feels that there are others which will also support this effort."

"Unless there is a substantial increase in local tax support the financial problems of Hope School District 1-A will become critical within the year."

Nixon Urging Integration Cooperation

By G.C. THELEN Jr. Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Stressing cooperation rather than coercion, President Nixon ventured his greatest involvement in Southern school desegregation today with a New Orleans meeting with advisory councils from seven states.

Aides said the President's journey had twin goals: Bolstering the effectiveness and prestige of the state desegregation advisory councils, and emphasizing his commitment to enforcing wide-scale voluntary integration in the South this fall.

Nixon faced the difficult political job of administering unpopular medicine while keeping the patient reasonably happy with the doctor.

George P. Shultz, who led the administration party accompanying Nixon, said one idea of the trip was to extend a hand to the South on the eve of what likely will be its largest dose of desegregation.

Shultz is vice chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Education and director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Also accompanying the President were Secretary of Welfare Elliot L. Richardson, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, White House aides Robert H. Finch, Leonard Garment, Harry Dent and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Director of Economic Opportunity and J. Stanley Pottinger, Richardson's chief civil rights aide.

On the eve of the President's meeting with Southern officials, Mitchell said he expects the Supreme Court to decide later this year what steps the Justice Department should take in attacking school segregation in the North.

Mitchell told a Senate committee Thursday his department cannot move against segregation caused by housing patterns until the court acts.

Senators from the North and South told Mitchell the nation needs a new policy to get away from the hypocrisy of ignoring segregation in the North—whatever its cause—while zeroing in on the South.

Mitchell agreed the criticism is valid.

The state desegregation advisory councils were formed by the Nixon administration to lead the Southern integration drive this fall.

Nixon planned to meet with the full panel from Louisiana and with the chairmen and vice chairmen of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina units.

The committees are biracial, bipartisan and composed of educators, physicians, lawyers, other professionals and civil rights leaders.

With school openings less than a week away in some parts of the South, the President and his administration stand on the threshold of a crucial test over desegregation and over ending school discrimination.

Administration officials are forecasting integration this fall up to double the current rate.

TV Campaign Touches Off Bitter Fight

By ROBERT A. HUNT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has touched off a bitter, partisan fight by approving a bill to restrict broadcast campaign spending for major public offices in this year's general election.

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., one of the four GOP conferees who voted against the measure, said the compromise bill represented a "frantic effort by Democrats to save some of their candidates."

The GOP members from both the House and Senate refused to sign the conference report, largely because the six Democratic members included the provision making the restrictions take effect this fall.

A vote on the compromise bill is scheduled today in the House before the beginning of a three and one-half week recess.

The House-Senate conferees met behind closed doors twice to iron out differences in the bill designed to cut into the sharply rising cost of running for office.

The House-passed version called for the restrictions to take effect next Jan. 1, clearly exempting the fall elections this year.

The Senate specified that the bill go into effect 30 days after enactment.

The bill sets a limit of 7 cents a vote cast in the last general election or $20,000, whichever is higher, as the spending ceiling for covered candidates. It applies to those running for president, vice president, Senate, House, governor and lieutenant governor.

Primary elections would not be covered until next year when a limit half that set for general elections would apply. Presidential and vice presidential candidates would be exempt.

The original Senate bill applied only to candidates for federal offices in general elections. The House added primaries and the two state officials.

Another House provision which stayed in the conferees' package would allow states, by law, to bring other state officers under the bill's umbrella.

The bill also requires that no broadcaster charge any political candidate more than the lowest rate paid by any commercial advertiser for the same time period. And it repeals the equal time requirements for President and Vice President candidates only.

Meanwhile, the Democratic Party filed suit seeking to overturn a Federal Communications Commission ruling that denies political parties an absolute right to buy air time for comment on issues.

The suit was filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia.

The FCC ruled last week that broadcasters can refuse to sell time to parties for comment on controversial issues. But the commission said stations cannot refuse to sell time for fund-raising.

The revised figure was $724.9 billion. Even though the gain was twice as large as first thought, it was still small in economic significance.

More important was the fact that the second quarter marked a turnaround after two quarters of declining production, which had led some economists and critics to say the nation was in a full recession.

Corporate profits for the second quarter were $82.3 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, slightly below the $82.6 billion of the first quarter. The drop continued a decline that began this time last year after six months of record high profits.

Tuesday's Kiwanis meeting was a family affair. Each Kiwanian with his family met together at Town and Country Restaurant for a picnic type meal served buffet style, enjoying the fellowship and Mr. Lavin's program.

The Movie Drop-Outs

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—The law of supply and demand works pretty well in the movie-TV vineyards, too.

At the moment, demand for big-name actors in feature films is pretty slim. So the supply—the stars of the James Stewart-Henry Fonda-Glenn Ford generation—is going over to television, where suddenly there is a big demand.

Some stars, however, are bucking the trend. One hold-out is Burt Lancaster. Oh, he'll do TV, according to the rumor—but he wants $60,000 an episode. That's a little steep, even in TV.

Another trend-bucker is Jack Lemmon. He won't even talk money. He just won't do it, period.

"I've shied away for two reasons," he says. "In the first place, when I was just starting my career, I had five different series on TV. This was back in the late '40s and early '50s. They weren't even on tape. So I know what the TV grind is like."

"The second reason is that I found them terribly unsatisfying. You had comparatively inadequate rehearsal time and shooting time. You just didn't have time for anything."

Those are good reasons, but the main reason is that, at the moment, Jack Lemmon can still make movies. His latest, "The Out-of-Towners," seems headed for a modest success. He has his own company and it's full of projects. He'll direct for the first time soon and has no thought of giving up acting.

If he didn't have these film plans, he might be inclined to overlook the grind and lack of artistic satisfaction of TV.

"As long as film goes well for me," he says, "I just don't want to do television."

But he can understand why his peers are flocking to television.

"Our industry is at such a standstill," he says, "that they've been tempted, just to have something to do. But I'm sure they've all gotten guarantees of two seasons, at a big figure."

He's probably right.

Perry LaFerty of CBS says that a name star on a new television series is "an insurance policy—but a very expensive insurance policy." It is insurance against failure, but certainly no guarantee. Debbie Reynolds flopped. Doris Day made it. You can be sure of nothing in television.

He says that television programs cost so much today that the networks must get a large audience. And the name star gives the program a better shot at getting that large audience.

There are only a few who seem to be able—or willing—to stick with movies. Jack Lemmon, Burt Lancaster, John Wayne—so far they're holdouts. But wait 'til next year.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. KENNETH M. ROGERS

In an impressive candelighted ceremony, Miss Hazel Jeanne Daines and Kenneth Milton Rogers were united in marriage at 7:30 P.M., August 8th at Rose Hill Baptist Church. Dr. John Wren performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Daines. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. (Buster) Rogers, all of Texarkana.

David Dean, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Don Ruggles who sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Vows were exchanged before an altar backed by a fifteen branch candelabrum and massive arrangements of mixed white gladiolus and mums. Tall branched candelabras were placed on each side of the arrangements. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore an Empire 'A' line silhouette of imported Silk Peau De Soie accented with double motifs of Venice lace on the bodice, skirt front and high sculptured neckline. The detachable Chapel length train was also in the silk Peau and accented with matching Venice lace. Her full bouffant layered veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a halo of embroidered Venice lace flower clusters. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations and white roses centered with a large white orchid, showered with satin ribbons caught in love knots. Mrs. Eddie Daines, Cousin of the bride, attended as Matron of Honor. She wore an empire styled gown of yellow crepe trimmed in yellow velvet ribbon and carried a bouquet of aqua blue carnations entwined with satin streamers.

Mrs. Susan Jones of Houston, and Miss Vernetta Choate of Ft. Worth, served as bridesmaids. They wore empire gowns of aqua crepe trimmed in aqua velvet ribbon and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations entwined with satin streamers.

Little Miss Kim Avery, Hope, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl and wore a matching yellow gown.

W. H. (Buster) Rogers served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Charlie Walker of Benton, and Mark Coleman of Hot Springs.

Ushers were Johnny Prothro, Tyler, Texas, Jim Bennett, Hot Springs, Jim Simms, Cousin of the groom, Shreveport, and Charles Cabe, cousin of the groom, Garbo.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Daines wore a Peau De Soie silk suit with matching accessories.

Mrs. Rogers, mother of the groom, wore an Ecru coat dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore an orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Parlor.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rogers left for New Orleans, and Florida on their honeymoon. After August 24th the couple will be at home in Arkadelphia, where both will attend Henderson State College this fall.

Ken Rogers is the the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Hamilton and Mrs. Ruby Rogers of Hope.

Rehearsal Dinner

The Cattleman's Steak House was the scene for the rehearsal dinner, Friday evening, August 7th, 1970 given by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Rogers. The couple chose this time to present gifts to their attendants.

Candidate Has Trouble Getting Crowd

By JIM MCCALL

Associated Press Writer
NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Lester Gibbs says he plans to hit the campaign trail playing with a five-piece band to help draw crowds.

Gibbs, 64, a Republican gubernatorial hopeful, said one of his biggest problems has been getting large crowds to hear his speeches.

"I can't afford to spend thousands of dollars to feed hundreds of people to get them to come to one of my speeches," Gibbs said.

He said stumping around the state with the country and western band would draw the crowds he needed to "tell the people the truth about the problems of Arkansas."

Gibbs said he had attended many political rallies around the state and had "made speeches just like everybody else," but was not getting the "coverage from the news media that the money men are getting."

A professional musician since the age of 14, Gibbs said that playing in a band was "something no other candidate can do."

Gibbs plays the piano and guitar.

Another of the problems Gibbs said he had faced in the campaign was a lack of financial support.

"I've spent less than $700 trying to beat the richest man in Arkansas," he said.

Gibbs would not comment on what he thought his chances of winning the election were, but said he had already made plans in case he loses.

The former Revenue Department field supervisor said he owned a 350-acre farm near Brinkley that was operating on a "money-making basis." He also said he would soon be old enough to receive social security payments.

Gibbs said the outcome of the election rests on "how many votes (Gov. Winthrop) Rockefeller can buy."

Gibbs said the number one problem in Arkansas is education.

"Integrating the schools has lowered the standard of education in Arkansas 50 per cent," he said. "All people aren't equal. There is no such thing as social equality."

Gibbs said he would work to turn the control of the schools back to local officials.

Another major problem, Gibbs said, was the prison system.

"I was raised about seven miles from Tucker Prison Farm and when I talk about the prison I know what I'm talking about," he said.

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper. STUTTERER NEEDS THERAPY

Dear Helen: I stutter. All through school I wouldn't talk before a class because I knew what would happen. The only time I didn't stutter was when I sang. I have a good singing voice.

I have a wonderful husband who is very patient with me. Sometimes I don't stutter when talking to him, and sometimes I do. I can't remember anything that might have caused this. But how do I get over it? — STUTTERER

Dear Stutterer: You're sure of yourself when you sing, for you know your voice is good. But when you talk, you "know what will happen" so it does. Your self-consciousness ties your tongue in knots.

A speech therapist can help you untie those knots, but don't expect overnight miracles. You can't undo the habits and fears of a lifetime without a great deal of work. Good luck! — H.

Dear Helen: Marilyn and I were married when she was 16 and I was 19. We ignored the warnings of elders about being too young — and for the first two years we were very happy.

I continued my college education at night and worked full time during the day. We had a baby. We felt proud that things were going so well, in spite of financial difficulties.

Then Marilyn began working as a waitress on the nights when I didn't have a class. The extra income helped. I thought it would give her a break from house routine. That was the biggest mistake I ever made!

Soon she was working full time, and then she became a cocktail waitress (after lying about her age). It didn't take long before my sweet, wonderful girl became cold and insensitive. Her lust for money and the things it could buy grew out of proportion.

Four months ago she told me she had stopped loving me and for me to leave. After two months of utter loneliness, I tried dating again, and found some wonderful girls, but Helen, I can't get over loving my wife. She won't change her mind. It's over for her.

How does a man destroy a love that has built up over five years, and start a new life? — R. J. P. Dear R.:

...By not living in the past. You're remembering a 16-year-old sweetheart, not a 21-year-old cocktail waitress who (if you met today for the first time) you might not even like. People change. Some grow up, others grow down. And love isn't forever unless both partners work at it. You'll see how right I am within a year. — H.

Dear Helen:

I'd like to offer another possible help to the boy with the bigoted father. Encourage him to attend evening college classes. He'll probably be with people of all races and will learn they're all the same — just human. Maybe he could take Black History, or Black Economics (a real eye-opener for everyone). I took Black Sociology — got into it accidentally, and decided it would be fun. Although I didn't consider myself prejudiced or bigoted, I was amazed at the things I learned.

Same people only need a little nudge to get over those ingrained ideas that they've never really questioned before. — WAKING UP

Jean Seaburg III in Pregnancy

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Balearic Islands (AP) — Actress Jean Seberg has been admitted to a hospital here for an undisclosed illness during pregnancy.

A spokesman for Juaneda Clinic said Monday the 23-year-old Miss Seberg was admitted Saturday and is expected to be released Wednesday. He said her condition had improved greatly since admission.

NO RETAKES, please. Actress Candice Bergen rubs a sore spot after falling from a horse while filming a movie in Mexico.

Pitcher Dick Bosman Mows Down Twins

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dick Bosman gave up drag racing in favor of throwing a speeding baseball much to the regret of the skidding Minnesota Twins.

The hard-throwing Washington right-hander mowed down the Twins on a measly bunt single—Cesar Tovar's leadoff hit—in handing the West Division leaders their sixth loss in succession Thursday night, a 1-0 beating as Minnesota's once-comfortable lead dwindled to five games over Oakland as the A's lost 4-3 to Cleveland.

Bosman, a husky 6-foot-3, 210-pounder, issued a walk to opposing pitcher Jim Katt in the sixth, after retiring 16 straight Twins, then got Tovar on a double play bouncer before retiring Minnesota the rest of the way, facing only 28 batters, one over the minimum.

The 26-year-old from Kenosha, Wis., who has driven drag racers at 215 miles per hour gave up driving a couple of years ago "because I realized the dangers of auto racing and you must drive consistently at those speeds to react properly. You just can't play ball then jump into a car and win a race."

So Bosman, who is now 12-8 and was 14-5 last year with an American League leading ERA of 2.15, switched to owning and fixing snowmobiles in the winter and winning games for the Senators in the summer.

Bosman, lowering his 1970 ERA to 3.02, got the only run he needed in the first inning when Wayne Comer bunted for a single and went to third on Harmon Killebrew's wild throw. Rick Reichart's grounder got the run in, sending Katt, who issued only five hits to his ninth loss against 10 triumphs.

In other AL games, California nipped Baltimore 3-2, Milwaukee edged Detroit 3-2, Kansas City slugged Boston 11-3 and the New York Yankees topped Chicago 4-3.

In the National League, Chicago downed San Francisco 6-3, San Diego outlived St. Louis 9-7, Atlanta downed Montreal 4-1, Cincinnati ripped the New York Mets 6-1 and Houston edged Philadelphia 4-3.

Sam McDowell, 17-7, struck out nine and gave up three hits in stopping the A's winning streak at five games.

The left-hander was touched for the three runs—all unearned in the third on Tommy Davis' two-out bases-loaded double. Davis got to bat when Cleveland's Duke Sims dropped a foul fly off the bat of Blue Moon Odum, who eventually walked.

Vada Pinson homered for the Indians in the first and Cleveland won it in the fifth with three runs. Graig Nettles and Roy Foster had run-scoring hits and another came in on a wild pitch.

Roger Repoz snapped a 2-2 tie with a leadoff eighth inning homer off Orioles' reliever Moe Drabowsky for the Angels' triumph.

Jim Fregosi had a homer for the Angels while Frank Robinson drove in both Baltimore runs with a ground out and double.

Dave May's solo homer in the fifth inning snapped a tie and gave the Brewers their thriller over the Tigers and Denny McLain, 2-4.

Ed Kirkpatrick ripped his first major league grand slam and Paul Schaal contributed four hits in the Royals rout of the Red Sox. Mike Andrews and Tony Conigliaro had homers for Boston off winner Al Fitzmorris, 6-4, who completed his first start in the majors.

Rockie Frank Baker dropped an opposite field double to left fielding home the winning run in the eighth inning for the Yankees. Roy White slugged his 17th homer of the year for New York.

"Divine Comedy"
Davis called his work "comedy" in accordance with the custom of the times, because the story ended in happiness. Appreciative readers added the "Divine."

New Nicklaus Playing Best Golf Ever

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus was strolling through the lobby of the club house when he was approached by a middle-aged woman wearing dangling earrings and a look of hero worship.

"Oh, Mr. Nicklaus," the lady cooed. "Tell me, is it true that you are going to Hollywood to make a movie? I've heard that talent scouts have been after you."

Jack, who shared the first-round lead in the PGA championship, blushed.

"No, ma'am," he replied politely. "I play golf. That's my career."

Shortly afterward, a man strode up to a press photographer and asked the name of the young player whose picture he had just snapped.

"That was Jack Nicklaus," the photographer answered.

"No, I know Nicklaus," the questioner persisted. "I mean that kid with the blond hair."

"It was Nicklaus," the cameraman repeated.

The man walked away, scratching his head.

The new Jack Nicklaus is puzzling everybody. He is trim and handsome. He looks 10 years younger. He has a pleasant new personality. And he's playing the best golf of his life.

The 30-year-old belter from Columbus, Ohio, who has won more than $60,000 in his last four tournaments which include his second triumph in the British Open, goes into the second round of the PGA Championship today tied with San Francisco's young John Miller for the lead with two-under-par 68.

Everybody's predicting Jack will walk away with the $40,000 first prize, thus completing a unprecedented second sweep of the four major pro championships. He already holds three Masters, two U.S. and two British Open crowns. He won the PGA in 1963.

Only three other players have won the four major titles once around—Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan, no longer active, and Gary Player of South Africa, three away from a second sweep.

Trailing Nicklaus and Miller after the opening round over the 6,962-yard, par-70 Southern Hills Country Club course are Larry Hinson and Charles Coody, tied at 69 and a half dozen bracketed at even par 70.

They are Arnold Palmer, Jacky Cupit, Dick Hendrickson, Homero Blancas, Dave Stockton and Sam Snead. Hendrickson is an obscure club pro from Marlton, N.J. Everybody knows Sam Snead. He's 58 and winner of more than 100 tournaments, including three PGAs, in a fabulous 30-year career.

Defending champion Ray Floyd, blaming a patch of red sand for two of his bogeys, had a 71 and Bill Casper, the Masters king, fired 18 straight pars and two bogeys for a 72, a score he shared with Lee Trevino.

Tony Jacklin of Britain, the U.S. Open champion and Player had 74. Jacklin took a triple bogey six on short 14th, where he hit his tee shot against a fence.

Nicklaus, once the 210-pound fat boy of the tour, now is hard to distinguish from a couple of his young pursuers—Miller and Hinson, two blond stringbeans who look so much alike they often are mistaken for each other.

Jack went on a diet after coming home last fall from the Ryder Cup matches in England.

"We had a friend who followed the weight-watchers program," said Jack's wife, Barbara, mother of his four small children. "Jack told me he was determined to reduce. And he went about it like a martyr."

"He called up the manufacturer who makes his suits and told him to come over in two weeks and make him some new clothes. He was that serious about it."

Skipping breads and sweets, Nicklaus lost 15 pounds the first two weeks and shaved off a total of 20 pounds in three weeks. He lost eight inches around his hips.

"I thought it was a family characteristic and that I'd always be big around the hips," Jack said. "I lost only an inch around the chest and a half-inch around the waist."

He let his hair grow, effecting a mod look. He became a new man. People who watched television couldn't believe their eyes. With his weight loss, Nicklaus also seemed to gain a new maturity, and a sense of humor that he had previously lacked.

Now he's stealing recruits from Arnie's Army.

He's a delight at the press conferences.

Bench May Receive 'Asterisk'

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's been nine years since baseball made "asterisk" a household word—but the little character may once again star in the record books the next time Cincinnati's Johnny Bench unloads a homer.

The biggest cog in the Big Red Machine smacked a two-run shot in the fourth inning Thursday night and Lee May and Tony Perez added solo blasts as Cincinnati overwhelmed the New York Mets 6-1 to give Jim Merritt his 17th victory of the year.

It was back in 1961 when Roger Maris hit 61 homers in 162 games that baseball decreed the record should carry the little star to show it was separate but equal to Babe Ruth's 60 round-trippers in 154 games.

Now along comes Bench with 40 home runs, one shy of Roy Campanella's 1953 record for most homers in a season by a catcher.

The problem is the Bench isn't exclusively a catcher. He has hit 33 of them in games in which he worked as the receiver, four when he was a left fielder and one each as a center fielder, right fielder and first baseman.

Officials say only the 33 are being counted in his quest for Campy's record. What the record book will look like when Bench finishes the season is best left to statisticians and computers. Bench apparently isn't giving it much thought.

"Sure I'm thinking about homers," he said after the game, "but the Campanella record is the last thing on my mind."

"I started the season hoping I'd hit 30 and, as things are going now, I'd like to hit 50. But I'm also looking for hits that can help the ball club," Bench said.

In Thursday night's other National League action, Houston surprised Philadelphia 4-3, San Diego outlasted St. Louis 9-7, Atlanta topped Montreal 4-1, and in an afternoon contest, the Chicago Cubs beat San Francisco 6-3.

In the American League, Washington's Dick Bosman one-hit Minnesota 1-0, Milwaukee edged Detroit 3-2, Kansas City clobbered Boston 11-3, the New York Yankees nipped the Chicago White Sox 4-3, California edged Baltimore 3-2 and Cleveland topped Oakland 4-3.

Jesus Alou rapped a two-run single that capped a three-run eighth inning in Houston's victory over the Phils.

Ollie Brown, with his 20th homer, and Jose Arcia each drove in three San Diego runs while St. Louis got four-baggers from Rich Allen, Joe Torre and Lou Brock.

Atlanta's Rico Carty belted his 25th home run and Hoyt Wilhelm contributed ninth-inning relief pitching against Montreal to enable George Stone to pick up his first victory since July 6.

Ron Santo, Billy Williams and pitcher Milt Pappas homered against San Francisco ace Gaylord Perry as the Cubs moved within four games of first-place Pittsburgh and within two of the Mets in the Eastern Division.

Clay May Fight Frazier in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP)—Promoters say only the lack of signatures on a contract—something they view as a formality—stands between a heavyweight championship fight between Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay in Atlanta Oct. 26.

The proposed bout has been rejected by a number of cities because Clay, stripped of his heavyweight crown when he refused induction into the Army, has been unable to secure a license. But the Atlanta Athletic Commission has issued him a license.

And Clay said at a news conference Thursday that he is willing to fight Frazier, the champ, in the 5,000-seat City Auditorium. Announcement that Clay has a license and is ready to fight caught the Frazier camp by surprise.

"It's a lie," said Yank Durham in Stateline, Nev., where Frazier is appearing with his rock music group, Durham, who manages the fighter, said "there is no truth to it at all."

He said he could not believe that Clay had a license, but that if he does, Frazier will fight him.

However, Durham left the door open for a possible bout with Clay next year.

"We have a commitment to fight Bob Foster," Durham said. Clay will not be fought until we fulfill our obligation to Foster.

"If Clay has a license, then we'll fight him next year. Let him fight someone else and prove to me he has a license. If he has a license, we'll fight him next year. There is no fight in sight with Clay until next year."

Georgia State Sen. Leroy Johnson arranged the fight. He said at the news conference that all Georgia law requires is a city boxing license and Clay has that in his possession.

"We have done what the law requires us to do," said Johnson. "We feel we are now in the running. There is no state law which would prevent the fight."

There were published reports that the fight has the endorsement of Gov. Lester Maddox but he was unavailable for comment. Vice Mayor Maynard Jackson and other city officials attended the conference and said afterwards the fight has their blessings.

Clay, now 28, said little.

"This is the latest try and wherever we can get it I'm ready," he said. "I couldn't predict in this one. I've been off too long."

Tribal Line Back in Kindergarten

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
It might not seem fair for someone who comes out on top at graduation to have to go to kindergarten, but that's the case of Tribal Line. And it won't be a comedown.

Tribal Line, winner of the Graduation Stakes at Detroit, is expected to face at least nine other good 2-year-olds Saturday in the six-furlong, $50,000-added Kindergarten Stakes at Liberty Bell.

The biggest money race Saturday will be at Arlington Park, where the $100,000-added Lindheimer Handicap could be split into two $50,000-added divisions. Another $50,000 stakes on tap is the Alabama for 3-year-old fillies at Saratoga.

Among those expected to oppose Tribal Line in the Graduation are Walnut Hill Farm's undefeated Buck's Nashua, Michael G. Phipps' Nantillon and Charles Engelhard's Raise Your Glass, and Frank D. Turner's Swift Pursuit.

As many as 18 to 20 could show up for the Lindheimer, over 1-16 miles on the grass. They include Miss Barbara Hunter's Pattee Canyon, 120 pounds, winner of five stakes this year and the best grass running filly in the country; Mrs. Dorothy C. Rigney's Fast Hilarious and Charles Englehard's Mr. Leader, high-weighted at 121.

About 12 are likely for the 1¼-mile Alabama. Heading the list are Stephen A. Calder's Office Queen, winner of seven stakes this year, Gordon Grayson's Virginia Cracker, the Delaware Oaks winner, Michael G. Phipps' Gay Missile, winner of the Ashland and William R. Hawm's Last of Line, winner of the Hollywood Oaks.

'Retired' Atkinson Already Back
CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Al Atkinson, outspoken middle line-backer for the New York Jets who announced his retirement last week, is back in action.

Atkinson was on hand this morning when the Jets' charter airliner loaded at Laguardia Airport in New York for a flight to Winston-Salem, N.C., where the team will take on the Atlanta Falcons Saturday night.

When the 27-year-old line-backer announced his retirement last week he took a shot at what he called Joe Namath's "disappointing performance" and the recently-settled National Football League contract dispute which leaves older players out in the cold as far as pensions are concerned.

In an exclusive interview with Ed Gebhart, sports editor of the Delaware County Times in Chester, Atkinson explained his reasons for returning to the turf. Atkinson lives in Chester.

"I feel a moral obligation to join the team because of a couple of fellows who've been hurt," the former All-American tackle for Villanova University said.

Isacc to Compete for NASCAR Title

By BLOYS BRITT
Associated Press Auto Racing Writer
CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP)—To charge or not to charge is the problem facing race driver Bobby Isaac.

"I have to decide in every race whether to go for the win or hang back and go for the points," the 33-year-old stock car veteran from Catawba, N.C., said Friday.

Isaac is locked in a close battle with James Hylton, Bobby Allison and Richard Petty for the lucrative driving title in NASCAR's Grand National Division. The title this year will be worth at least $75,000 to the driver and car owner who win it.

The four are among 58 entries for Sunday's Yankee 400, one of the key money and points events on the NASCAR schedule. Isaac, Hylton and Allison were among prime favorites to win the pole position in time trials today.

But the quest for the driving title presents problems of a different nature to Isaac and Hylton.

Isaac is known as a short track specialist who isn't at his best on courses like the two-mile, 18-degree-banked Michigan International Speedway. In fact, of the 22 wins he has recorded in his NASCAR career, only one has been on a track of a mile or longer.

Isaac has nine victories this season and already has banked $73,500. Hylton, who does not profess to be a charger, has only one victory but has been a consistently high finisher. His chart shows 24 finishes in the top ten in 31 races this year.

Petty, who will be among Sunday's top favorites is equally expert on either short or long tracks. He has won ten times this year, two times on major speedways.

"My problem in the long races like Sunday's Yankee 400 is to be certain I'm around at the finish," Isaac said after warming up his red and white Dodge.

"If I don't finish high, I miss a bundle of points toward the championship. Yet, it is my nature to want to charge, to go all out for victory and that, strangely, is a risky business in racing. You can blow an engine, wreck or spin off the course when you're trying too hard."

Twenty cars were to earn starting positions in today's time trials, with the remainder to be decided Saturday.

Qualifying speeds were expected to be five to seven miles per hour off Pete Hamilton's lap record of 162.739 mph. NASCAR officials came up with a few rules earlier in the week requiring the cars to be equipped with a carburetor device that will slow them down. NASCAR said the rule was necessitated for safety reasons.

Chiefs-Colts Preseason Game Tonight

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The millions of fans who spend autumn Sundays watching their favorite pro football teams clash get a chance tonight for their own version of preseason training.

They can get in shape for the regular season by watching the Kansas City Chiefs, 1970 Super Bowl champs, take on the Baltimore Colts in a nationally televised preseason game. It's on NBC-TV and the kickoff is 8:30 p.m., EDT.

There was gloom, meanwhile, today in the camp of the Cincinnati Bengals, youngest of the 26 National Football League teams. Star quarterback Greg Cook is scheduled for surgery early next week and probably will be out of action for the entire campaign.

The game at Kansas City is one of two tonight as the second weekend of exhibitions get underway. The Detroit Lions are at Buffalo in the other.

There are nine scheduled Saturday night, one Sunday and one Monday night.

Bengal head coach and general manager Paul Brown disclosed the likely loss of Cook, offensive Rookie of the Year in 1969 for his first season in the American Football League.

"After examination, Greg decided he should undergo surgery," Brown said. The exploratory surgery on his right shoulder will be performed Monday or Tuesday at the Cleveland Clinic.

Doctors believe a sheath of muscle may have broken loose in Cook's arm, Brown said. The quarterback has complained of constant pain and has not been able to throw a football. He hurt the arm during a pickup basketball game last winter.

"Doctors feel he will be lost for the season," Brown said.

Both Baltimore and Kansas City are plagued with injuries. The Chiefs will play without linebacker Bobby Bell, sidelined with a spinal injury, and cornerback Jim Marsalis, who scored last week with an intercepted pass, is doubtful.

Johnny Unitas has a dislocated finger but the veteran quarterback is scheduled to start for Baltimore, which may not have the services of offensive tackle Sam Hall and safety Jerry Logan.

The spotlight will be on a pair of Heisman Trophy winners in the contest at Buffalo. O.J. Simpson, the 1968 winner, is one of the Bills' running backs, while Steve Owens, who got the award last fall, is a Detroit Lions' rookie.

The New Orleans Saints said Friday they planned to retire No. 81, the jersey worn by big Doug Atkins, one of the NFL's all-time outstanding defensive ends. Atkins retired at the end of last season after 17 years, which tied the NFL longevity record.

Here's Saturday night's NFL exhibition card: Cleveland vs. San Francisco at Tampa, Fla.; New Orleans at Houston, New York Giants at San Diego, Chicago vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee; Atlanta vs. New York Jets at Winston-Salem, N.C.; Dallas at Los Angeles, Cincinnati at Miami, Pittsburgh at Minnesota, St. Louis at Denver.

All-Stars Even Series in Softball Play

Thursday night in the Girls Softball All-Star game, the All-Stars pulled out a hard earned 10-8 win. This evens the series record at 1-1, the coaches winning 7-6 last year.

The leading players on the coaches' team were Pat Westbrook, Jan Herring, and Coach Duncan. Gigi Gladney, Corny Coleman, Melissa Reece and Carol Frazier led the All-Star attack.

Gonzales in Canadian Quarter Final

TORONTO (AP) — Pancho Gonzales, the old lion of the tennis court, stalked his way through three match points and what he termed bad calls by a linesman Thursday to advance to today's quarter finals of the $23,000 Canadian Open Tennis Tournament.

Gonzales erupted in the second set of his match against Ron Holmberg when a linesman called service faults. But he managed to curb his temper when the pressure was on to beat his doubles partner 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

In other matches, top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia defeated countryman Bill Bowrey 6-3, 6-1; Marty Reissen of Evanston, Ill., got past Ismail El Shafai of the United Arab Republic 6-3, 1-6, 6-2 and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa upset third-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia 4-6, 6-2.

Coach Sees So-So Year for SMU

FORT WORTH (AP)—Injuries and lack of experience notwithstanding, the Southwest Conference football coaches excluded optimism for the coming season in discussing their teams' prospects for the benefit of more than 1,000 persons at a football rally Thursday night.

The closest thing to pessimism came from SMU coach Hayden Fry, who said it "looks like a so-so year for the Mustangs."

Fry, admitting that he was "running scared" because of the lack of experience, nonetheless believed his team would provide plenty of excitement.

Tommy Ford, Baylor assistant filling in for head coach Bill Beall, said his winless Bears (0-10 last year) could surprise some people "if they're looking past us to the game a week later."

Rice's Bo Hagan pointed to an experienced team in which "not a single sophomore will crack the starting lineup," and Texas A&M's Gene Stallings said he was "anxious to get out into the arena" following a spring session full of pleasant surprises and no disappointments.

Darrell Royal, whose Texas Longhorns ruled as Cotton Bowl champs and national champions last season, said of the 1970 Steers, "We have the same potential. We need some good bounces and we can enjoy similar success."

The coaches prefaced their remarks with introductions of three of their players.

In other Texas League action, El Paso blanked Shreveport 5-0, Albuquerque edged Memphis 6-5 and San Antonio defeated Dallas-Fort Worth 5-1.

Alvarez Is Victorious Underdog

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Elio Alvarez, a bearded student in film making and theater arts at UCLA, is excellent at playing the role of victorious tennis underdog.

The 22-year-old Argentine's last performance took place Thursday, when he upset top-seeded Zane Guerry of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, and advanced to the semifinals of the U.S. Men's Amateur Grass Court Championships.

Alvarez, a UCLA senior, is the No. 4 foreign seed in this tournament.

Joining him in the semi Thursday were 21-year-old Australian John Gardner. The unseeded Gardner upset Marcelo Lara of Mexico, the second foreign seed, 6-3, 6-4.

The other two semifinalists were to be decided today when Bob McKinley of St. Ann., Mo., the third seeded American, played top foreign seed Hiroo Rahim of Pakistan and unseeded Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., met unseeded Rich Bohrnstedt of Redlands, Calif.

SPORT SHORTS

OTTAWA (AP) — John Mahaffey of San Antonio, Tex., battled the field, new pin placements, and exhausting heat and humidity and came out on top after the halfway point in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championships.

Bears to Play at Notre Dame

CHICAGO (AP) — Hallowed Notre Dame Stadium in South Bend, Ind., will throw its doors open in 1971 for the first time to pro football.

The Chicago Bears announced Thursday they will play a National Football League exhibition game against the Cleveland Browns at Notre Dame Aug. 20, 1971. The stadium seats 59,000.

Two Arkansans Shoot 74 in PGA

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — R. H. Sikes of Springdale, Ark., and Richard Crawford of Bella Vista, Ark., each shot a 74 Thursday in the first round of the PGA National Golf Championship at Tulsa, Okla.

Miller Barber of Texarkana was far behind with an 81.

Jack Nicklaus was the leader in the $200,000 tournament with a two-under-par 68.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

English is the richest language in the world, with some 800,000 words. Despite this fact, The World Almanac notes that the speaking vocabulary of well-educated Americans is only about 5,000 words. Experts doubt if any one person has an active vocabulary of 60,000 words — a mere 7.5 per cent of the entire English language.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The three major television networks are busy moving their entertainment entries toward the fall starting gate. NBC and CBS open their seasons the week of Sept. 13, and ABC introduces its lineup during the following seven days.

"How does the new season look to you?" is the most frequent, worried question asked of a reporter who has been looking over new and old product, visiting studios, and talking to stars, producers and directors.

Network television's 1970-71 season looks very much like the 1969-70 season at the same time last year. There will be 21 new programs—or 23 if one counts as new shows Red Skelton's half hour on a new network and NBC's "Men from Shiloh" which is a drastically remodeled "Virginian." None seems to be very different from series which have been around for some time.

Returning programs, will not risk any really radical changes. Producers, who are usually good salesmen, speak convincingly about exciting scripts and impressive performances. Stars, particularly all the young unknowns getting their first breaks in leads, rave about their fellow workers and tell how the affectionate acting climate will be reflected in the finished product. All this is as predictable and traditional as the choreography of a minuet.

There is the usual inter-network competition, but it seems to be consensus that ABC, with 11 new series, a new confidence and aggressiveness, is the network to keep an eye on. ABC, "the third network," is under new leadership and appears ready to give the two larger, older networks some real competition for audience favor. CBS, with six new shows, has been reshuffling its schedule and refocusing, all in an effort to attract more viewers in younger age brackets and in urban surroundings. It will schedule fewer specials, under a new policy dictating that only specials which have found sponsors will be scheduled. Currently there are almost none on its shelves.

NBC, with the fewest new shows—four—still likes to use special programs, and lots of them. It is experimenting, not with new story ideas, but with new TV forms.

How does the new season look? Business-like and cautious, take it from one who predicted "Beverly Hillsbillies" would be lucky if it survived for five months and that "Laugh-In" could never stand the pace.

DOCTOR'S MAILBOX

Douching Neither Causes Nor Prevents Cancer

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I have heard that douching after intercourse may push the sperm up to meet the ovum. Is this true? How soon after intercourse is it advisable to use a douche?

A—If douching with a spermicidal solution does push any sperm into the uterine cervix, which is doubtful, they would be dead sperm. To be effective, however, the douching should be done immediately after intercourse.

Q—Can daily douching cause cancer?

A—Routine vaginal douching as a means of feminine hygiene makes no more sense than using a daily enema, daily eye wash, daily nasal douche and daily mouthwash. Nature intended does an excellent job of keeping these parts adequately clean except in the presence of specific disease. Douching will neither cause nor prevent cancer.

Q—Is it possible with frequent douching to wash away all the ova in the ovaries?

A—No. Douching washes the vagina but not the uterus or tubes and certainly not the ovaries. Besides, the ova are discharged from the ovary only when they are ripe.

Q—My doctor says I should have my Bartholin glands removed. Is this a major operation?

A—The two Bartholin glands are situated on either side of the vagina. When they become infected or cystic, it may be necessary to remove them. This is a relatively minor operation.

Q—Where is the rectal seal located? How does it work?

A—A rectocele is a protrusion of the rectum through the wall of the vagina. When it is small, it causes no symptoms. But, if it is large, the victim can empty her bowel only by pushing the rectocele back in place. It can be repaired by an operation.

Q—I have had a dropped bladder or cystocele for six years and it is getting bigger. Will it turn into a cancer? Is surgery the only treatment?

A—A cystocele or protrusion of the bladder into the vagina is not likely to become cancerous. Surgery is the only satisfactory treatment.

Q—What is Plaquenil given for? Is it a tranquilizer? What are its side effects?

A—This antimalarial drug is not a tranquilizer. It is often beneficial in the treatment of lupus erythematosus and rheumatoid arthritis. Its side effects include headache, dizziness, nausea and diarrhea.

SHORT RIBS

By FRANK O'NEAL

By ROGER DOUGHTY

THUMBIN' AROUND—The way to travel, according to the youth of America, is via the thumb and the hitching route. Much to the unhappiness of the highway patrol, young people are clogging the roads this summer—especially on weekends—going to and from where the action is, or was. It has proved to be a problem for the men in blue since so many kids are on the move that it's impractical to try to round 'em all up. Mostly the police are trying to be as friendly as possible, keeping hikers out of trouble. If you try it, please be careful. The most dangerous thing about a car is still the nut behind the wheel and you never know who that's going to be when you thumb it.

BEER BIZ—The beer folks, who have been riding high for a long time now, are taking steps to stay that way. More and more rock festivals, contests, etc., are being sponsored by the beer boys, who really aren't interested in getting you to drink—yet. It's just that when you're old enough to sip an occasional brew, they'd like you to remember they sponsored that great festival where you really flipped out with Sly and the Family Stone—or somebody of that caliber. They call it looking to the future.

PREDICTION TIME—Look for something big in the way of a record from Ronnie Milsap, who has been based in Memphis for the past few years. Milsap is very in with those who know where the music business is at (John Fogerty and all the guys from the Creedence Clearwater Revival jammed with him for six hours one night during a recent stay in Memphis) and things are finally coming together for the blind singer. More on Ronnie as we go along.

MORE CREEDENCE—While on the subject of the Creedence Clearwater Revival, make sure to pick up on their latest LP, Cosmo's Factory. It's got "Travelin' Band" and "Up Around the Bend" and a lot of other goodies. Like everything Creedence touches, this is quality stuff from the word go.

SHIRT STUFF—Latest thing in the wonderful world of sweatshirts is a reversible job. Has a picture of William Buckley Jr. on one side and Gore Vidal on the other. You decide which side to wear when. It's the perfect gift for somebody who likes to switch from liberal to conservative at the flick of a shirt tail.

BORDER BASH—There's trouble brewing on the border, folks, what with the American and Canadian customs inspectors taking turns seeing how tough they can make it for teenagers from the other country (the one that isn't theirs). Some Canadian friends claim it all started when the U.S. officials tightened the screws on all Canadians with long hair, holding them up at the border for an hour or more while shaking down their cars for pot and the like. Canadian officials got wind of what was going on and started dishing out the same treatment. Unlike the Mexican scene, both sides admit that very little is uncovered.

Creedence Clearwater

SOUNDS OF SILENCE?—We've all heard of the Nashville Sound and the Memphis and Boston Sounds and... Well, the latest, according to a record company that will remain nameless, is the Kennebunkport Sound. There is such a place (it's in Maine), but nobody ever recorded anything there. The record guys, however, think the name is cuter than cute and hope it will sell a few discs.

QUICK QUIZ

Q-How should Chinese names be written?
A-In Chinese, surnames are always written first and that order is usually followed when they are written in English.
Q-Which is the most popular Christmas tree in the United States?
A-Of all the Christmas trees sold in this country, 40 per cent is balsam fir and black spruce; 27 per cent, Douglas fir.
Q-Which of the four Gospels was written first?
A-The Gospel of Saint Mark is believed to be the earliest of the Gospels.

STRENGTHEN YOUR FAITH

Through Regular Church Worship

Luke 6:31

And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise

What do you really wish that men would do to you... leave you alone? Try it and you will have a lonely world... no home, no neighborhood, no church, no nation. Do you expect your employees to work for you while you forget their welfare. Do you wish others to deal kindly and generously with you? Do you demand that people be honest, truthful, and trustworthy with you? Would you rather others be courteous, and appreciative of you and lend a helping hand when you have a hard task to do? They who keep the Golden Rule will discover that it must work both ways. It is "the rule of God." In every land and in every age it is the basic rule for good living. One cannot improve on it. If you want Golden Rule treatment from others you must give Golden Rule treatment to them. It will work in the experiences of every man. It is the Divine Way. The Golden Rule is still very Golden.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

New Local Plant Makes First Shipment

located at the corner of Elm and Ave. A. The load of 30 entertainment centers was shipped to Young American Mobile Homes of Hope.

—Hope (Ark.) Star photos by Donal Parker

Here Mr. Bruner and Mr. Cranford display one of the decorative fireplace-mobile home entertainment centers. The top, or mantle, of the fireplace opens to reveal a radio, stereo and speakers. Two other models of the fireplace are planned for production. The entertainment centers are made from wood and wood components. The plant can produce 12 of these units in a day.

Beside the units, decorative posts, room dividers and wooden trusses for mobile homes are also planned for manufacture. Production of the trusses is scheduled to begin August 20 and 600 to 800 will be manufactured in a day.

The plant supplies to top grades of mobile homes and sales are concentrated locally and to the Young American Mobile Homes' branch in Levelland, Texas, at present time although inquiries, from as far away as California have been made. Mr. Bruner said, "We'd like to thank J. R. Bennett (president of Young American Mobile Homes) for getting us started and encouraging us."

The plant presently staffs 15 workers and hopes to employ a total of 40 people by the end of September. Jerry Booker is plant superintendent.

Napoleon Upsets Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Danny Napoleon wrecked Amarillo's strategy with a two-run single to spark the Arkansas Travelers to a 5-2 win over the Giants in Texas League action here Thursday night.

With the Travelers owning a 3-2 lead in the seventh, left handed hitting Jose Cruz was walked intentionally to load the bases with one out to bring up the right handed hitting Napoleon against Amarillo right hander Les Scott.

With the infield drawn in tight, Napoleon hit a two-run single through the middle to widen the Arkansas lead to 5-2.

Arkansas pitcher Ray Bare yielded a second to Jim Howarth and a double to Christ Speier in the seventh but left the runners stranded and held Amarillo hitless the rest of the way.

Bare, going the distance with a nine-hitter, recorded his ninth hit against 10 losses, while Amarillo's Scott, who hurled seven innings, absorbed his 15th loss against four wins.

Congress, Nixon Honor Lombardi

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, with a phone call and Congress with a special tribute, took time out this week to honor Washington Redskins Coach Vince Lombardi, hospitalized since a second major operation July 27.

The President called Lombardi at his room in Georgetown University Hospital Tuesday night and wished him well, the Washington Post said in today's editions. The call lasted several minutes and the President thanked Lombardi for what he had done for the country, particularly young people.

"You are very kind. What you have said is very flattering," Lombardi replied.

Meanwhile, there were several speeches in Congress praising the former Green Bay Packer coach.

Leaders of both parties in the House paid homage to Lombardi, who has been replaced for the time being by assistant Bill Austin.

Ruling Duo on Dumping Nerve Gas

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A judge was to decide today whether to halt the Army's destruction of surplus nerve gas as workers loaded the concrete-encased rockets aboard a rusty ship for a final voyage to the bottom of the Atlantic.

Army officials said the loading at Sunny Point, N.C., might be completed late today, allowing the ship and the 2,675 tons of deadly nerve gas to begin the final ocean trip Saturday, a day ahead of schedule.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge June L. Green of Washington promised a decision today on a suit by an environmental group seeking to halt the dumping operation.

Plans call for sinking of the LeBaron Russell Briggs and its cargo Tuesday, 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The suit, contending there are safer ways of disposing of the gas, asked a delay in the operation until alternatives are studied.

Lola Lea, lawyer for the Environmental Defense Fund, argued Thursday that the Army erred in determining the ship will not break up before reaching the bottom of the ocean.

The suit said the ship and concrete coffins containing the gas might break up before reaching bottom, 16,000 feet down. This would allow the gas to escape and contaminate the environment, the suit said.

The Army theory is the ship will sink slowly and ocean pressure will cause the coffins to break up gradually, allowing the gas to escape slowly without harming marine life.

The suit, in which Florida Gov. Claude Kirk joined, also questioned the dumping of 104 pounds of VX nerve gas contained in a land mine in the shipment.

This gas is a more persistent type than the GB gas which makes up most of the cargo, the suit noted. If released into the water prematurely, it would retain half strength more than 12 years.

Once the GB gas escapes into the water, the Army says, chemical action will render it harmless within 10 hours.

A droplet of either gas can kill in minutes.

The Army has said since the disposal operation was announced July 30 that the rail shipment and dumping of the gas pose little danger.

The gas had been stored at depots near Richmond, Ky., and Anniston, Ala. Rail shipment of the 12,540 rockets, encased in 418 steel and concrete coffins, was begun Monday and the trains rolled into Sunny Point Tuesday night.

Personnel working with the gas are armed with masks and antidotes, and normal operations at the Sunny Point docks were curtailed while huge cranes hoisted the coffins aboard the ship.

The Briggs, brought out of mothballs for the operation, will be towed to sea by commercial barges. At the burial site, valves will be opened, allowing the ship to sink.

The Army decided to bury the gas in the ocean after the National Academy of Sciences said the quickest method of disposal was necessary because of the unstable condition of the gas.

prevent Arab commandos from kidnapping diplomats, foreigners or government officials. Informant said the guerrillas may resort to this tactic to sabotage the U.S. peace plan.

Two Beirut newspapers also reported that King Hussein of Jordan has warned his armed forces to be on the alert because subversives were plotting to assassinate him and other Jordanian officials.

Cairo newspapers gave major coverage to Israeli charges that Egypt has moved several missile batteries closer to the Suez Canal.

By MARTIN ZUCKER
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel will take a harder attitude toward peace negotiations with the Arabs as a result of Egypt's reported movement of missiles closer to the Suez Canal, authoritative sources said today.

The sources indicated, following a day of consultations among top government leaders, that the Israeli government feels no progress can be made in the talks until the missile issue is cleared up.

There were indications that the government might not name a representative for the talks until it got satisfaction on the missile issue. Asked about this, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the government considers it "most important" to clarify the matter with the United States.

The government received information earlier this week, and passed it on to Washington, that the Egyptians had moved several SAM anti-aircraft missile batteries to sites 12 and 18 miles from the canal soon after the current cease-fire began last Friday night. Egyptian officials in Cairo denied the report.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told the Knesset, Israel's parliament, that the United States bears a "heavy responsibility" because it proposed the 90-day cease-fire so that indirect peace negotiations might be held again. These had been expected to start soon, in Cyprus or New York, with the special U.N. envoy for the Middle East, Gunnar Jarring, as go-between.

Dayan said Israel has demanded that the United States see to it that the missiles are withdrawn to their previous positions. He also made the text of the truce agreement public for the first time and said the Egyptians violated the "key clause," calling for no change in the military status for 30 miles on either side of the canal, and for neither side to "introduce or construct any new military installations in these zones."

He later sent a formal complaint to Maj. Gen. Ensis Sillvasuo, the Finnish chief of the U.N. observer team in the Middle East, claiming the Egyptians had introduced a "significant number" of missiles as close as 12 miles to the canal.

A U.N. spokesman in New York said the observers were watching for cease-fire violations but had no responsibility to oversee the military standstill. The agreement calls for each nation to check the other side's compliance by reconnaissance flights along its side of the line.

You all know the fairy tale of a prince who was endowed with everything good by friendly fairies but cursed by an unfriendly fairy with the gift of being too clever.

The same holds true at the bridge table. It pays to be clever but not to be too clever.

East's jump to four hearts was an overbid intended to jam his opponents. It did drive South to four spades. If East had just bid three hearts like a normal human being, South would have just bid three spades and East might have wound up playing and making four hearts.

West made the normal opening lead of the deuce of hearts and too-clever East won with the ace. We'll never know why he made this pointless false card. The only man he could fool was his partner.

Then East returned the nine of spades. Dummy's ace won the trick and the four of clubs was led. South's jack lost to West's queen and the defense had two tricks in. West was also certain of a trump trick and, if he could count on winning a fourth trick with the king of diamonds, he would have the hand beaten.

All this should have gone through West's mind but West was thinking about the heart suit. His partner had bid four hearts without the king or queen. Obviously he held the ace of diamonds. Why not be brilliant and lead his king?

So West was just as brilliant as his partner. He led the king of diamonds and South made his impossible contract.

Nader to Use Judgment to Probe GM

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has received $425,000 from General Motors in an out-of-court settlement of his invasion of privacy suit.

Nader said Thursday he would use some of the money to monitor GM's activities in the areas of safety, pollution and consumer relations. "They are going to be financing their own ombudsman," he said.

The suit, filed in November 1966, alleged that GM began a campaign to intimidate Nader after he wrote his book, "Safe At Any Speed," which was critical of automobile safety standards.

Nader complained in the suit that GM hired a private investigator, Vincent Gillen, whose detectives inquired into his private life.

The book prompted a safety crusade and a Senate hearing during which James M. Roche, then president of the giant automaker, publicly apologized for any harassment.

Nader sued for damages—$26 million was the figure reported at the time although his lawyers said Thursday the total was $12 million.

The $425,000 that GM paid Thursday was for compensatory damages and the automaker said claims for punitive damages were withdrawn as part of the settlement.

GM said it denies any wrongdoing or legal liability in connection with the claim and that "the settlement in no respect constitutes an admission of any of the claims asserted by Nader."

"Settlement of the lawsuit at this time was considered desirable" to save the time and expense of further litigation, GM said.

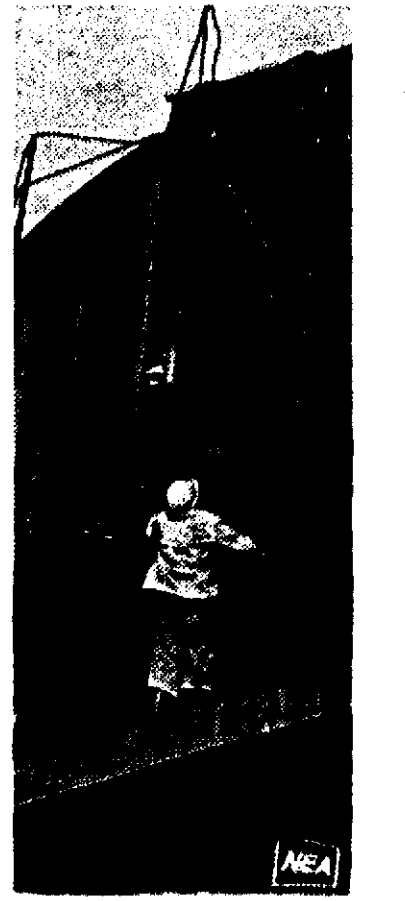

Nader said in a statement that GM could have delayed the case further and therefore "it was deemed wiser to settle the case and devote the proceeds, after deduction of legal fees and expenses, to the cause of consumer protection and corporate responsibility, especially in the latter area—General Motors' responsibility."

American Not Mentioned in New Message

By MICHAEL BURNS
Associated Press Writer
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Uruguayan government today studied an unauthenticated message found in a Buenos Aires cafe which indicated the Tupamaro guerrillas might murder the Brazilian diplomat they kidnapped. The message made no mention of American agronomist Claude L. Fly, who was kidnapped last Friday.

Officials in Montevideo could not confirm the authenticity of the note found in the Argentine capital 150 miles up the Plate estuary. But it contained language similar to that used in 10 previous messages from the urban Tupamaros, and it was delivered in the same manner—left in the restroom of a cafe.

The communiqué said Dan A. Mitronie, the kidnapped American police adviser whose body was found Monday, had been sentenced to death for "collaborating with the forces of repression." It said the process of "revolutionary justice" for Brazilian Consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41, could be halted if the Uruguayan government released about 150 prisoners demanded as ransom by the Tupamaros.

An earlier message, relayed to authorities Tuesday, said Dias Gomide and Fly, a 65-year-old consultant working for the Agriculture Ministry, both were in good health and had not been sentenced yet. The later note said the Brazilian represented "one of the bloodiest dictatorships in America, whose tortures and assassinations go to such limits that they have been denounced by the justice commission of the United Nations."

The note said the government bears "total and absolute responsibility" for Mitronie's murder. The government has refused to bargain with the guerrillas, maintaining the prisoners whose release is demanded are criminals rather than political detainees.

Some 12,000 police and soldiers continued their search of the Uruguayan capital for traces of the kidnappers and their two captives. About 80 suspects were rounded up Thursday. The kidnappers have warned that if their hiding place is discovered, both their hostages will be killed immediately.

U.S. Report Shows a Slight Improvement in Economic Situation

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's newest economic report shows a "glimmering of a better situation," but the Nixon administration's expected business upturn still depends on what the nation's consumers do with their money in the coming months, economists believe.

Statistics issued by the Commerce Department and the Federal Reserve Board Thursday showed increases in industrial production and personal income during July, while a revised report on Gross National Product disclosed that real production of goods and services rose more than was reflected in the preliminary report for April, May

FDA Stand on Cyclamates to Be Reversed

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is expected today to reverse its disputed decision of six months ago and bar use of cyclamates in artificially sweetened diet foods.

The FDA said there will be an announcement on the controversial sweetener after stock markets close this afternoon. Extension of the cyclamate restrictions to all food would have considerable economic impact.

Informed sources said top FDA officials decided Thursday afternoon to remove the sweetener from all foods on recommendations of a special medical advisory panel. The committee only a few months ago suggested the opposite course.

Spokesmen for the agency would neither confirm nor deny the decision.

But more than a month ago, in apparent anticipation of today's announcement, FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards ordered regional offices to stop processing applications for permission to use cyclamates in diet foods.

The government placed phased restrictions on the sweetener last October after it was linked to bladder cancer, birth defects and genetic damage in animals.

Cyclamates were totally barred from soft drinks after the first of this year. The originally announced deadline of February 1 for removal of cyclamates from general purpose foods was postponed till September 1 so canners could sell enormous stocks already on hand.

The FDA said in February that cyclamates could be reclassified as drugs and sold in specially labeled foods for diabetics and the obese after Sept. 1. These foods could be purchased without prescription in grocery stores.

and June. A less encouraging report showed a $14.3 billion deficit in federal finances on the "national income accounts" basis for the April-June quarter. The N.I.A. figures, showing the largest deficit since World War II, are not the same as the unified budget normally cited when budget surpluses or deficits are mentioned.

Administration economists said they were optimistic about the day's news, although it did not point entirely toward a recovery. They emphasized the most important factor in a recovery will be consumer spending, hopefully spurred by such things as increased social security payments.

These were the highlights of the reports:

—Personal income rose $3.6 billion during July reaching a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $801.8 billion. It was $49 billion higher than July, 1969, an increase that can be attributed partially to the social security increase and large federal pay raise effective earlier this year—both of which helped to boost the N.I.A. deficit to its near-record proportions.

—The Federal Reserve Board said industrial production rose a slight two-tenths of one per cent during July and ended three months of decline. The index for the month was 169.2 percent of the 1957-1959 average. Rising production of consumer goods such as television sets and home appliances fueled the increase.

U.S. Military Forces in Saigon Region Cut, 15,000 Coming Home

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American forces in the Saigon military region are being cut by about 15,000 men as the result of a major reshuffling of allied units and the transfer of a large base to the Vietnamese, official sources disclosed today.

The sources said two full brigades plus other units would be shipped home from Saigon and the 11 surrounding provinces of the 3rd Military Region. Men who have not completed most of their 12-month tours in Vietnam will be transferred to other units.

Bloodmobile Coming Here on Monday

Women of the Presbyterian Church, registered nurses from local hospitals and clinics, trained nurses and typists from the Red River Vocational Technical School will make up the 36 volunteers required to assist the five professional people who accompany the Bloodmobile when it comes to Hope Monday. Doctors are on standby at all times.

These people plus other public-spirited persons who give blood are the ones who make it possible to have blood whenever the need arises.

Anyone can get blood in Hempstead County from the Red Cross supply; however, only those persons who have given or members of their families may obtain Red Cross blood in hospitals out of the county.

When you give you should request a blood donor card at the Chamber of Commerce office so this can be proven without delay when you or a member of your family may be hospitalized in Texarkana, Little Rock, Shreveport or other places out of the county.

The bloodmobile will be at the First Presbyterian Church Monday, August 17th, 12 noon to 6:00 p.m. Will you?

Attitude of Israel Changed by Missiles

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli air force planes struck at Jordanian army positions today, the military command said, in further deterioration of the Middle East cease-fire.

The military said the raid was launched against Jordanian army strongholds which have given assistance to Palestinian guerrillas in attacks against Israeli frontier settlements.

A spokesman said the Jordanian army "assists terrorists and makes it possible for them to act against Israeli civilians." A spokesman earlier had announced that Israeli Air Force jets crossed the border and bombed and strafed Arab guerrilla targets inside Jordan for the second straight day today.

The Tel Aviv spokesman said those raids were in response to mortar attacks on two Jewish settlements.

The planes all returned safely after hitting objectives adjacent to Israel's Beisan Valley, he said. Beisan Valley settlements of Maoz Haim and Yardena came under mortar fire during Thursday night, but no damage was reported.

This was the second Israeli air strike inside Jordan since the Middle East cease-fire went into effect a week ago. The guerrilla organizations have disowned the truce initiated by the United States as a preliminary to peace talks.

Reports from Amman said Jordanian authorities have tightened security measures to

Elsewhere in the war—Small ambush actions and mopping up operations were reported along the northern coast where U.S. and South Vietnamese forces claimed they killed more than 300 North Vietnamese in fighting Wednesday and Thursday.

The largest allied casualties reported today occurred about 65 miles northwest of Saigon when mortar rounds fired by an American unit accidentally landed on a South Vietnamese position. Eleven government troops were killed, and 24 Vietnamese and two American advisers were wounded.

One harassing action was reported in Cambodia. A military spokesman in Phnom Penh said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese apparently were occupied with integrating newly arrived reinforcements.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams returned from convalescent leave with his family in Thailand and resumed his duties as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. His gall bladder was removed in Japan July 3.

Deadline for Deposits on School Yearbook

Deposits for a 1971 Bobcat, Hope High School yearbook, and a picture in the book are being made at the school science building when the bookstore opens next Monday, August 17.

The following two weeks a staff member will be at Clyde Davis Photography to take deposits and following this, students will go to the annex office or the publications room in the same building.

Deadline for deposits has been set for September 12 according to Mrs. Mary Nell Turner, publications adviser.

Junior high arrangements will be announced later.

Financial Condition of School Unchanged, Fund Loss Is Likely

This letter is published so that the public may know that the school district's financial position has not changed since it was presented last year.

Since Hempstead County has been certified by the State Assessment Coordination Division as under-assessed according to Arkansas law, the County taxing units will have withheld 20 per cent of its turn-back funds after January 1 unless the County is certified as satisfactory by the State.

The amount of money involved for Hope School District 1-A would be approximately fifty to sixty thousand dollars.

Water Wells Restored to Full Service

All wells were restored to service Thursday night and normal water reserves should be restored by Friday night.

The parts for the last well were received sooner than expected and Chester May, owner of Butane Gas Company, delayed some of his other work to make his equipment available to the city.

By working overtime for a second day in a row The Water Department completed the well about a day sooner than was expected.

Reserves did not have time to return to normal by Friday morning and because during the day more water is used than is pumped it will be Friday night before all storage will be filled.

The Water Department thanks the public for its cooperation in not watering lawns and washing cars for the past few days.

Plant May Be Forced to Close

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — The Lift Parts Manufacturing Co. of West Memphis is threatened with a shutdown, which would result in the laying-off of 150 employees, company President William Dufree said Thursday.

Senate Is Expected to Override Veto

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to follow the lead of the House and override President Nixon's veto of a $4.4 billion education bill. It would be Nixon's second such defeat this year.

The Senate vote is expected Tuesday or Wednesday. The House overrode the veto Thursday by a margin of 289-114, 20 votes more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

But in a history-making day of considering two presidential vetoes, the House sustained Nixon's rejection of an omnibus $18 billion appropriations bill carrying funds for housing, veterans, the space agency and a score of other programs.

The vote on that one was 203-195, a majority but 63 short of two-thirds.

The second House vote ended any chance for the omnibus measure and made it necessary for the Appropriations Committee to go to work to draft another one.

There is some sentiment at the Capitol for deeper cuts in the space program to preserve the extra funds provided in the original bill for veterans and for such programs as urban renewal.

Republican leaders noted the Senate passed the education bill 84-0 in agreeing privately with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that the measure would be enacted into law over Nixon's objections.

Nixon objected to the bill because it exceeded budget recommendations by $641 million.

The bulk of the increases are for two programs which the Senate long has supported.

One is the Elementary and Secondary Education Act designed to improve education for children from poor families. The other is the impacted areas program which provides federal grants for school districts overcrowded because of nearby federal installations.

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee which handles education bills, said he believes the action of Congress on the vetoed measure will show its determination "to meet the domestic needs of this nation."

"It is not inflationary to meet the domestic needs of this nation," he declared.

Chance of Rain Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two cold fronts centered to the north and west of Arkansas are expected to bring a chance of rain into the state over the weekend.

Showers and thundershowers are expected to develop ahead of a front in Kansas and Oklahoma and another in Texas Saturday, bringing the possibility of rain to the state by Saturday night.

The warming trend is expected to continue over the weekend, despite the chance of rainfall.

Highs Thursday ranged from 94 at Texarkana and Fort Smith to 86 at Harrison.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal district judge refused today to forbid the sea-bottom burial of 2,675 tons of deadly nerve gas 282 miles off the Florida coast.

But Judge June L. Green coupled her denial of a temporary restraining order with an "urgent request" that the Defense Department designate a different site for the dumping.

Pollution State Threat

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau issued a statement Thursday afternoon saying that marginal pollution potential exists in Arkansas.

The Weather Bureau said pollution was not high enough to be immediately dangerous.
